GOD IS LOVE AND NOTHING ELSE

PRAISE THE LORD.

LETTER FROM GEORGE O. BARNES

MT. STERLING, KY., OCT. 30, 1888.

DEAR INTERIOR:—I have always thought the blue-grass country around Mt. Sterling the "loveliest" bit of farming landscape in Kentucky, and I think so still. I don't mean that it flows as well for the place as some; but to fill the eye it beats the best. "Billowy" is the only word I can think of to express the bold roll of the surface, as distinguished from the gently waving landscape of Fayette, Clark and Bourbon. And Montgomery blue-grass, in the best sections of the country, is simply unsurpassed.

Mt. Sterling itself, while very little changed in the business portion of the city, and quite like what it was when we held our meeting here 8 years ago, has grown out of all recognition in its residential suburbs. Beautiful villas and stately mansions have sprung up like magic, especially to the north and west of the old village. They claim 6,000 population now, but this, like the "elans" of the average, aspiring inland town, is slightly exaggerated, I think.

We met a hearty welcome, on arrival, though our coming was wholly unexpected. It was so much above the average, that I think it worthy of particular, grateful mention. I think that where the battle for standing room has been hottest, the foothold is most permanent. We had only remembered Mt. Sterling as one of the most fiercely contested fields of our evangelistic experience; where, at one time, the "light of faith" went sorely against us, and where, as dear Paul states it, "we were pressed beyond measure." After a protracted struggle, the devil was routed, and the dear Lord had it pretty much His own way. But the memory of the conflict was more deeply impressed upon us than the victory, as Waterloo and Gettysburg will ever be remembered by soldiers, with hardly a thought of who won the day.

Very grateful then was our reception here; and though I may not hope that our "new departure" will have a "walk-over," yet the almost enthusiastic way in which the dear people have crowded the court-house at every service gives hopeful augury of further success in persuading them that God is Love and Nothing Else.

Last night we ran against Robinson's circus, a very formidable rival, as all know. But it didn't empty a bench in the court-house, praise the Lord! We are happy guests of Mr. John Prewitt, with every delicate attention shown that marks true Kentucky hospitality. Mrs. Prewitt, nee Miss Lizzie Reid, of Dwingsville, is the dear friend of former years—Marie's Bath county "sweetheart," in fact—and the only daughter of the late Judge Reid, of that place. The judge and his wife were the devoted friends of our gospel in those early days of its introduction, and none were truer to us, "all along the line," than they. He was uncle of the late lamented Judge Dick Reid, whose melancholy fate threw such a gloom over this community two or three years ago.

I am glad to say that Judge Peters, in whose hospitable mansion we found such hearty welcome and generous entertainment, 8 years ago, still survives, in a wonderfully fresh and vigorous old age; and although for sometime an octogenarian, has the vim and sprightliness of middle age still clinging to him. He will likely live to be 100, which I hope he may attain, to prove to this fast living generation that regular habits and temperate diet will secure what we all long for—"length of days"—when joined with "faith in God."

Nothing could well have exceeded in gloom the day of our arrival. It was in deep contrast with the happy day that had preceded it. Tuesday and its night we had spent at what I call "Dwingsville Hall," where our dear friends, the Misses Mamie and Fannie Bright, made life a smile of joy unmingled, for four and twenty hours, to this Troupe Evangelique. Wednesday afternoon we landed in Mt. Sterling, to find the gentleman who had invited us there out of town, and no one else dreaming of our coming. We drove to the Turner House in a decidedly downcast mood. But all this soon changed. Our good friend found we were in town and soon transferred us to her delightful house; installed us in her best rooms; and made us forget that skies were frowning, and arrangements for a meeting lagged. We obtained the court-house without difficulty and were soon at work, trying to convince the people that God is Love and Nothing Else.

The clouds of the gloomiest October I ever saw in Kentucky are now gone, and the skies of bright blue are smiling upon us, as if a shadow had never crossed them. How difficult, in Nature and Spirit, to believe that the fathomless blue never changes for a moment. It can only be temporarily obscured. But, alas! we attribute the changes—which are only "of the earth, earthy"—to Him Who is unchanged and unchangeable. And even this cruel wrong we do Him, creates no vicissitude in His conduct or Love towards us. How we shall be riven with compunction and remorse, one day, to know our baseness in respect to Him, Who alone, of all, never felt ought for us but the tenderest pity and affection. Indeed, the best of us, "know Him not," as we ought. And worse, far worse, so many refuse to know Him better, or at all.

That this is bound to "come home to roost," is as certain as the retributions of the ages that lie ahead of us. More and more I see the meaning of the stunning response that answers back the anguished cry, "Lord! Lord! open unto us!" This frightened crowd are not what we call "infidels" or "reprobates." They are those who have "prophesied" in His Name; in His Name cast out devils; and in His Name done many wonderful works.

These cannot be "hypocrites," nor "unbelievers." They have "preached with tongue of men and angels," may have "bestowed all their goods to feed the poor," may have, for creed or dogma, "given their bodies to be burned." And yet because "Love" was lacking, they stand on the wrong side of a closed door.

Our retributions are ever in kind. A drunkard's hell is one where the awful thirst remains, but the power to gratify it is gone.

A gambler's hell is where the insatiable appetite for gaming consumes, and the eager hand shall never thumb a pack of cards or touch the glittering heap of coin, that allays and at the same time increases its hungry cravings.

The sensualist's hell is where all that the soul lusts for, with a desire that searches and distills, with torment unquenchable, is removed immeasurably beyond reach.

Our reason and experience tells us this is unalterably so. As the sowing so the reaping. "Men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles." But thorns bring thorns and thistles thistles, by a law that like that of the "Medes and Persians," changes not.

And think you, dear reader, that the "I know you not," that we read in Scripture, with a shiver of terror, as if, somehow, it were at times addressed to us—has no like seed, of which it is the ripened fruitage?

"Be not deceived. God is not mocked. Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he reap."

Now I know God is omniscient. If it comes to abstract knowledge, I am sure He "knows" me altogether; "down-sitting; up-rising; thoughts afar off." Yet He says "I know you not!"

Here comes in the changeless law of retribution. HE KNOWS US NOT, JUST SO FAR AS WE KNOW HIM NOT.

Oh, men! women! children! will you not see that there is but one "eternal life," and that is to "know the only true God, even Jesus Christ, Whom He hath sent."

And instead of measuring and knowing God in the person of Him Who "always went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil," you have thought of Him as the very One Who has "oppressed" you! Himself, as the sender of your sickness; the destroyer of your children; the robber of your property; and worst of all, the One Who at last snaps your brittle thread of life.

In your cruel creeds, your ferocious dogmas, you have called the Blessed God Thief, Robber, Murderer, Devil, while worshipping Him in the same breath as the "God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ."

As sure as retribution comes, as kind, this sowing must have a reaping in kind. "I know you not" means nothing more nor less than "you know Me not."

And yet we had His Blessed Son "always going about doing good," to teach us what and Whom He was. We saw that God-sent Savior dying for His enemies; invoking Love's blessing on them with His latest breath, to teach us Whom and what He was.

In spite of all, unbelief insisted that God slew His enemies; that God could hate the sinner to all eternity; nay, that even all eternity He predestinated the wretched creature to a never-ending hell, utterly irrespective of anything save His sovereign pleasure in doing it. My chiefest heartache now is that I even tried to believe that of my Blessed God. My deepest grief and "sorrow of heart" is that "my brethren and kinsmen according to the flesh" still try to believe it. O, that I could spare them the heart-rending discovery that will one day surround them with the "crack of doom," when the door they once fondly imagined stood open for them, is closed; and to their startled horror-ringing "Lord! Lord! open to us!" there will only come back the dreadful response, "I KNOW YOU NOT!"

Ever in Jesus, GEO. O. BARNES.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Elder George Dacie is holding a meeting at Winchester.

—Rev. F. D. Hale closed the Georgetown revival with 41 conversions and the Hopkinsville revival resulted in 23 conversions.

—Craddock publishes a letter from Bro. Barnes suggesting that he will go to Paris from Mt. Sterling if the friends will get the court-house and a boarding place for him. These have been arranged for and he will go thence to-morrow.

—After two weeks of earnest, christian labor, during which he has preached two sermons a day, Rev. Ben Helm, who has been conducting the revival at the Presbyterian church, announced Sunday that the service last night, would likely close the meeting. In addition to a general warning up of the membership, 11 additions have resulted and great good has been accomplished. Mr. Helm was formally called by the church Sunday, when the vote for him was unanimous.

Hon. John S. Van Winkle.

At a meeting of the Lincoln Bar at Stanford, on the 5th day of November, 1888, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. This bar has learned with sincere sorrow of the sudden and unexpected death of John S. Van Winkle, of the Danville Bar. We desire to unite with the people of Danville in testifying to his noble character and sterling worth, the incorruptible integrity and the spotless life of our deceased friend and associate. He had been for so many years a regular attendant upon the courts of our county as to be universally known and respected here as at his home. He was, in truth, a faithful, industrious, learned and able lawyer, and his death in the prime and matured vigor of his powers will be universally recognized as a grave loss to the people as well as to the Bar of the State.

2. Our respectful sympathy is tendered to the family of Judge Van Winkle, and the secretary of this meeting is directed to forward to them a copy of these resolutions.

THOS. W. VARNON, CLERK.

J. B. PAXTON, SEC'Y.

DANVILLE.—The marriage of Mr. Boyle G. Boyle to Miss Laura V., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Guest, was performed by Rev. E. M. Green. It was a quiet but beautiful wedding, witnessed only by the relatives and a few near friends of the families. The young couple took the limited express in the afternoon for New York and will visit the principal cities of the east before returning from their wedding journey. Miss Nannie Dunn, of this city, will be married November 7th at Columbia, S. C., to Mr. O. W. Hicks, of Oxford, N. C. George Tarkington sold to W. M. Cable, of Cass county, Mo., a yearling jack, Eagle, for $850. B. C. Sandridge sold to George Cogar 500 bushels of Irish potatoes at 55 cents per bushel. —[Advocate.]

If women are ever given the right of suffrage this dialogue will likely be often repeated:

Mr. Smith—"Are you going to the polls, dear? You know it is election day."

Mrs. Smith—"No."

Mr. S.—"Why not?"

Mrs. S.—"Cause I have nothing to wear."

FEELING BLUE.—"Darling," he said, "your eyes are as bright as diamonds, your teeth are as white as pearls, your lips are as red as rubies, and—"

"Yes, George," she replied sweetly, "and you are as green as emerald." Then George went into the jet black night.

A young fellow, who wanted to be smart, enquired on being introduced to a red-headed girl, "Where's the white horse?" With the sweetest simplicity imaginable, she replied, "I can't show you a white horse, but if you will look into that glass you will behold a white jackass."

The Seven Wonders of the World were Pyramids of Egypt, Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Tomb of Mausolus, Temple of Diana at Ephesus, Colossus of Rhodes, Statue of Jupiter, and the Pharaohs of Egypt.

A murderer at Denver, Col., was taken with convulsions and died in terrible agony, imagining that the murdered man was torturing him.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Samuel Fields and Miss Len Hausel were married on the 1st.

—Our party in the county is well organized and we expect to cut the republican majority to less than 100.

—A Laurel man here yesterday says he will not vote for Cleveland because stock has been selling so low.

—Writs of arrest are out for Patrick Morgan and Jeff Burleson, of Gunn Sulphur, charging them with the theft of two hounds.

—John C. Phillips, Goodland, this county, has been granted a pension. Mrs. Martha Alexander, East Bernstadt, ditto.

—C. C. Williams has been doing some good work in the democratic cause in various portions of the county, organizing clubs, speaking, &c.

—Chant Lair, who had his person filled with bullets by Walker Turpin some weeks since in a precarious condition, Wm. Parker, town marshal, out on circus day, is improving, and will recover.

—A court-house full of Rockcastle democrats greeted the Hon. W. H. Smith, of Richmond, at this place last Saturday. The speaker in his two hours' speech kept the audience highly entertained by the many good sallies and telling facts against the republican doctrine of free whisky and exorbitant prices for clothing, necessities, etc. Cheer after cheer greeted the speaker, for Grover, the Red Bandana and McCreary. Altogether it was a representative democratic rally, and will have its influence at the polls.

—F. H. Reppert is in from Cincinnati to vote. W. V., his brother, has gone to Casey county for the same purpose. Mesdames Jael Cooper and Nellie Redd, of Crab Orchard, were visiting here last week. Miss Anna Carson, of Brodhead, and Katie Hutner, Brodhead, two Rockcastle beauties, were visiting friends at this place Saturday. A. R. Dyche, of the Echo, and his little son were here Sunday. Miss Anna Carson, of Brodhead, who has done more to establish and maintain good schools in Rockcastle than most anybody, was in town Saturday, looking up the building fund for a new church at that place.

TRUE LOVE.

I think true love is never blind,
But rather brings an added light,
An inner vision quick to find
The beauties hid from common sight.
No soul can ever clearly see
Another's highest, noblest part,
Save through the sweet philosophy
And loving wisdom of the heart.
Your unappointed eyes shall fall
On him who fills my soul with light;
You do not see my friend at all,
You see what hides him from your sight.
I see the feet that fain would climb,
You but the steps that turn astray;
I see the soul unharmed, sublime,
You hush the garment and the clay.
You see a mortal, weak, misled,
Dwarfed even by the earthly cloud;
I see how manhood, perfected,
May reach the stature of god.
Blinded I stood, as now you stand,
Till on mine eyes, with touches sweet,
Love the deliverer, laid his hand,
And lo! I worship at his feet! —Phoebe Cary.

The Favorite

Medicine for Throat and Lung Difficulties has long been, and still is, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Asthma; soothes irritation of the Larynx and Fauces; strengthens the Vocal Organs; allays soreness of the Lungs; prevents Consumption, and, even in advanced stages of that disease, relieves Coughing and induces Sleep. There is no other preparation for diseases of the throat and lungs to be compared with this remedy.

My wife had a distressing cough, with pain in the side and breast. We tried various medicines, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has cured her. A neighbor, Mrs. Glenn, had the same ailment, and the cough was relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have no hesitation in recommending this

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President.

ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

For Congress.

JAMES B. MCCREARY,
Of Madison.

We would appeal again to the democrats with prohibition antecedents to reconsider if they have resolved to aid the republican candidate by voting for Nooe. Suppose you do succeed in defeating Gov. McCreary, what do you gain? Not the most sanguine of you can believe for a moment that Nooe stands the ghost of a chance of election. Then it is Ewell, if not McCreary, and who is Ewell? Simply an ordinary, one horse lawyer, whose practice is nearly exclusively confined to defending violators of the prohibitory liquor laws which prevail in Laurel and surrounding counties. Those who are interested in the enforcement of those laws recognize him as their greatest enemy, and we have heard it said that but for Ewell, who always comes to the rescue of the violators, they could do so a great deal more effectively. On the other hand, Gov. McCreary is a man of ability, who has by faithful service attained a national reputation as a safe, conservative and excellent leader. He is a temperance man in practice as well as in theory and he can do the cause more good than a score of Ewells, who if by any irony of fate, should be elected, would prove of less value to anybody and to anything than a knot on a log. All thinking men will pause before they assist in making a Congressman out of such a monstrosity.

Up to June of this year, a democratic administration has paid off $329,965,271.80 of the public debt and is still paying it right along. It has likewise redeemed millions of acres of public lands, and put an end to many abuses and frauds that grew and flourished under republican rule. President Cleveland has fully demonstrated that the country is safe in his hands and that the dire calamities predicted by the republicans before his election were based upon the hope and not upon the actual belief that they would befall the Nation upon a change of parties. As Thurman says, men of greater intellect may have been called to preside over the people, but not many, and no more honest, patriotic, faithful, courageous and capable man than Grover Cleveland has ever occupied the White House. This opinion of the purest and best of men by the greatest and noblest is fully shared by a large majority of the voters, who will, we are forced to conclude, say by their suffrages to-day that they approve and endorse honest government and a return to Jeffersonian methods.

The famous, or rather infamous Col. Two-Dollar Dudley, whose tactics in Indiana in 1876 will always be remembered in connection with fraudulent elections, has been laying his plans to buy the State again. In a letter to the chairman of the republican State committee, he discounts on the importance of carrying the State and makes this suggestion: "Divide the floaters into blocks of five and put a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five, and make him responsible that none get away and that all vote our ticket." The letter has been lithographed and spread broadcast over Indiana and New York and will be valuable evidence of the desperate means the republicans are resorting to to carry Harrison's own State for the grandson of his grand-sladdy.

It is now openly charged that had not Finley been drunk, he could have saved Judge Tartar from a watery grave. The Somerset Reporter, on the authority of a reputable gentleman, says that while on his way to Somerset with Judge Tartar, Finley was in such a maudlin state that he made a most indecent exposure of his person in a public place, to the disgust of everybody who witnessed the beastly performance. Are there not enough self-respecting men in the 11th to retire this disgraceful individual to the shades of private life? We believe there are.

At this writing it looks very much like the democracy will redeem the 3d, 9th and 11th districts, but fears are entertained of Day's success in the 10th. It would be a glorious consummation to elect an unbroken democratic delegation to Congress, and we will if every democrat will do his duty.

The chairman of the State Democratic Committee says no one need give himself any uneasiness over Florida. He has had a careful poll of the State made and Cleveland will have 12,000 majority, the democratic candidate for governor 12,250 and both democratic Congressmen will be elected.

Dr. Evans' reply to Elder Ballou should be read by every person inclined to throw his vote away on prohibition.

To those of our patrons who will read this paper to-day we again call their attention to the importance of going to the polls and voting and working for a triumphant majority for one of the most capable and at the same time most faithful Congressmen that has ever represented the district. We have an abiding faith that a majority of the people are for the return of Gov. McCreary to Congress, but no democrat should be satisfied with a bare majority. We can, if every man does his duty, make the defeat of the Little Red Hog so overwhelming that he and his impudent party will never dare again in this district to offer for election before an intelligent people. Let every democrat be on guard to-day.

The National Editorial Association will meet at San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 21, and continue in session four days. A tour of the State and a visit to the City of Mexico are on the programme, the railroads very cleverly extending the courtesies of their lines free of charge. The president and secretary of each State Association are ex officio delegates, and the president has the right to appoint one delegate for every 20 active members. This would give Kentucky three delegates in addition to the two provided for. Whom do name, President Johnson? It is time you were doing so.

In a fight at a political convention in Louisville a year or two ago Flynn Davis jobbed one of Sel Miller's eyes out. He was indicted for mayhem and the case was to have come up for final trial last week. But Sel, who is a very big-hearted fellow, refused to prosecute his assailant and in a manly letter to the prosecuting attorney admitting that he was perhaps as much to blame as he, asked that the indictment be dismissed, which was done, and Mr. Miller, who has reformed very much of late, has increased the growing respect for himself.

The most remarkable campaign in the history of the country ends to-day in the battle of the ballots, and the result will tell whether the American people will continue in power an honest and incorruptible administration or permit the return of republican methods of dishonesty and venality. The signs all point to decisive victory for the party of reform both in matters of government and in unnecessary taxation, which is unjust taxation.

The English sucker, Sir Lionel Sackville West, lost his job for interfering in American affairs, but he is not likely to suffer for the necessities of life. A dime museum man in New York has offered his lordship $2,000 a week for holding two levees of two hours day for an indefinite time. Let's see, $2,000 a week is $104,000 a year. "Me Lud" will make money by the change if he accepts the glittering offer.

Mr. F. D. Spotswood, editor of the Harrodsburg Democrat, and his foreman, Mr. Louis L. Lomer, have turned inventors and are about to secure a patent for a "paper jigger," the purpose of which is to straighten sheets as they fall from the fly of a cylinder press. If the machine is what is claimed for it a fortune is in store for the gentlemen and here's hoping their brightest expectations may be realized.

Good news comes from New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut, while several other Northern States promise democratic majorities. It looks decidedly like Cleveland is going to win, but a man can't always sometimes tell. The republicans know his election sounds their death knell and they are fighting with the desperation of despair.

A vote for Cleveland, Thurman and McCreary is a vote for a reduction of unnecessary taxation and the stoppage of wringing millions of money from the people to be piled up at Washington without warrant or reason. You will be untrue to yourself if you do not vote for them.

The Richmond Register speaks of him as the "Little Red Porker." That went do. The warrant described the animal as a Little Red Hog, and you must stick to the record.

TEMPERANCE AND POLITICS.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]
The great question with temperance voters—simply as temperance men—is: What is the best way of accomplishing the recovery of our country from the curse of strong drink? The plan heretofore pursued has been wondrously successful. Elder Ballou's article clearly admits this. His reference to Maine, Kansas and Iowa as prohibition States; and Lincoln as a local option county might have been supplemented by showing that throughout our State and in the South generally the cause is steadily triumphing. He says, "I believe to-day that a majority of the democratic party are, at heart, in favor of the suppression of the entire liquor traffic." The same is true of the republican party.

As this subject has been and can be presented, discussed and acted upon as a separate issue, distinct from all questions of party politics, where is the propriety of changing our former successful modes for one of at least debatable propriety?

Elder Ballou's theory that "small politicians crack the party whip over timid prohibitionists," and thus force them to vote against their convictions, is very like a sling at the manhood, or, at least, is not complimentary to the honesty of these majorities in the great political parties. If the Elder is correct, that this temperance question is a political issue, his party a political party, then is he not a politician—I will not say a "small politician"—and does not his performance look much like swinging a party whip? May it not be possible that these vast multitudes of temperance people, in the two great political parties, who neither seek nor desire political offices, honestly believe that the long tried and successful measures of the past are better than Elder Ballou's new fangled plans? May they not be actuated by such honest convictions, rather than the fear of "small politicians?" What is the meaning of the Elder's appeal, "Let temperance men, who vote from principle, close up their scattering ranks, &c." It reads very much like an intimation that the great mass constituting the temperance majorities of the two great political parties were giving unprincipled votes if they fail to see through the Elder's own spectacles. Has not zeal outrun judgment when he thus undertakes to pronounce condemnation on the integrity of the great mass of true temperance voters? Men of such strong convictions and of so little logical acumen as is here indicated are hardly competent leaders in so grand a matter as this great temperance movement.

I have no disposition to engage in a war of words with the Elder. What is meant by a question of morals as contra, distinguished from a political question—is too easily obvious to need any elaborate process of definition. The prerogatives of our federal government are specifically defined and limited by the Constitution of the U. S. If the federal government attempts anything beyond the narrow limits there fixed, it is doing that which is unauthorized and is so far forth subverting the fundamental principles of our government. Federal politics has to do with governmental policy within these narrow bounds.

If Elder Ballou would consult our Federal Constitution and the learned expounders of that instrument, he might avoid the error of saying, "It is the prerogative and duty of governments, State and National, to preserve and improve the morals of its citizenship." Webster is good authority for the lexical force of a word. But when one consults him, he ought not to mistake an adjective for a noun, lest he be led into error.

The Elder is not fortunate in his attempted argument by way of illustration. Does the federal government enact laws against stealing, except in the narrow limits of its own constitutional prerogative? If a man should steal one of Elder Ballou's horses would he look to the federal courts for redress? The State deals with such matters. But the man who steals a horse has invaded the personal, civil rights of his neighbor. The man who sells him whisky has not done so. The cases are not similar.

Again, the fact that the liquor traffic is taxed, does no more imply the right of governmental prohibition than did the tax on incomes imply a governmental right to forbid a man to accumulate property. The Elder is surely mistaken here.

I do not suppose that any one will for a moment controvert the Elder's emphatic assertion that "this great liquor question now agitating America, Great Britain and Australia is a national question." I certainly will not, but still insist that it is not a political question.

We are now engaged in a great political struggle. A strictly political question is at issue. It is a simple question of governmental policy. The vast majority of temperance people—if Elder Ballou is correct—propose to settle this by the exercise of their political rights as citizens of the U. S. They are now, as they have been, and will continue to be, temperance men. They have not abated their interests in and efforts for this great cause. But this does not suit some of our over-zealous fellow workers. They want us to neglect what we feel to be our duty as citizens, in looking after the political and economic welfare of the country; put up figure-heads as candidates for office; desert our well proven methods and adventure on new schemes in which we want confidence. For one I cannot do it.

NOBILITY NOTES.

Mrs. Bismarck is tall and very gray and as fond of champagne as her husband.

SULTAN MELEY HANSEN, of Morocco, is about the most bloodthirsty potentate of modern times.

The Empress of Austria is said to own twenty pet horses and twice as many dogs, after whose proper entertainment she personally sees every day.

The Empress of Japan, it is said, is rapidly becoming one of the best informed women of her time. She is a hard student of German, Russian, French and Italian.

Old Kaiser William's widow is named Augusta, the widow of Kaiser Frederick is named Victoria, and the wife of the present Kaiser is known as Augusta Victoria.

Prince the Prince of Wales' recent visit to Hamburg he initiated some wheelbarrow races, with ladies in the barrows trundled along by the highest English nobility.

The Princess of Wales often sits in the hall at Sandringham as the night falls and watches the coals reddening in the immense fireplace for an hour or more, utterly oblivious to all sights and sounds around her.

Louis, King of Portugal, is seldom to be seen without a cigar, and he converses fluently in English, French, Italian, Portuguese, Spanish, German and Swedish. He is pleasant, and tells ever so many anecdotes.

DOWAGER EMPRESS VICTORIA, widow of Frederick III., has an annual income of $200,000, $40,000 of which is derived from England. She will be obliged to make Germany her nominal residence, and to visit Berlin every year.

MILAN, of Serbia, is probably the most impetuous king now in the royalty business. A Berlin writer avers that his application for a loan of $50,000, with his life insurance policy as collateral, was lately received by a Vienna banker.

In the coffin of the dead Emperor ex-Empress Victoria placed a small gold chain, to which three lockets were attached, containing miniatures which she had taken during their courtship, and which he had always worn until his last illness.

"Von Moltke, the Silent," isn't at all silent at home. He is, on the contrary, a charming, lively, and amiable companion. He is fond of the wife of his nephew, who presides over his household, and of her children. He loves wheat and roses; and of these flowers cultivates a great variety.

For many years Queen Victoria has eaten "grissini," a Turin specialty, instead of ordinary bread. It is something like baked macaroni, says Pieroddy, and has been sent daily from Turin by Piccirilli, but since the establishment of a "grissini" bakery in Charlotte street, Halkstone place, her Majesty gets her daily bread from London instead of Turin.

The daughter of the King of Shov has recently married the eldest son of King John, of Abyssinia, with a splendor unparalleled in modern ceremonies. The crown worn by the bride is regarded as the one which decked the head of the Queen of Sheba. According to the native records, it has been in the possession of the Ethiopian kings for twenty-five centuries.

BATHING at the fashionable French watering places are gradually adopting Queen Christine's manner of bathing. She is a marvelous swimmer, making easily her daily half-mile in half an hour, but she is invariably accompanied by a swimming maid of honor and four bathers as a suite. Two boats bring up the rear, and her Majesty is rowed back to shore when her fatigue is too great.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL will issue tomorrow morning and as often as necessary Extras containing the cream of election news, for gratuitous circulation among its local patrons.

The trustee of the jury fund, Mr. B. G. Afford, tells us that the total amount paid jurors during the late court was $854.04, not a great deal more than half of that paid at the Spring term.

W. G. JESS was declared a lunatic again by an inquest Friday. He has been behaving in an unseemly manner and following his former methods of making big trades and giving checks on banks in which he had no money.

The minority stockholders of the E. T. V. & G. railroad have filed a bill to enjoin the proposed lease of the road, on the grounds of fraud. There are $34,000 involved. Ingersoll & Peyton (our Master) are of counsel for the plaintiffs, and we understand their fee is $20,000.

THE President has already issued his proclamation, fixing the 25th as Thanksgiving day. There are a great many things to be thankful for this year and it looks very much like to-day's work will give Grover and the rest of us democrats something extraordinary for which to return thanks.

The store of S. L. Powers & Co. was broken open Thursday night and robbed of $8.25 in cash, a couple of suits of clothes, a pair of boots and probably other articles. Entrance was effected by boring through the rear door a hole sufficiently large to insert the hand and remove the bar. Two parties are suspected and one of them is likely to do state's service for the job.

NEW MIXES.—Mr. Wm. Welsh, of this place, is opening up for a Pennsylvania Company, of which he is a member, coal mines on Horse Creek and on Lynn Camp Creek, between Lily and Corbin Stations, in Laurel county. The Company owns 10,000 acres, with a railroad frontage of five miles, and it cost $100,000 over and above the two patents, which will cost $25,000 each. Mr. Welsh tells us that there are three veins of coal, a channel vein of 26 inches and two bituminous veins of 48 and 84 inches, respectively.

FINDING as Mr. James Carter was riding out home he passed a spring wagon drawn by a horse, which immediately began to run at full speed. Mr. Carter attempted to get out of the way, but was unable to do so and the shaft of the vehicle was driven into his horse's thigh and through to the hollow. Fortunately Mr. Carter escaped injury, but the horse, for which he had just given $100, died shortly after the accident. There were two men with the wagon, but they were carelessly walking along the road without paying any attention to the horse.

COURT COURT, after a three-week's session, finally adjourned Saturday afternoon. The last case of note heard was that of L. B. Carter for killing Tom Moore, which was on trial when we went to press. It was given to the jury Saturday morning and in a short time a verdict of acquittal was rendered. Mr. Carter had twice before been tried for this killing, but juries largely in his favor having resulted before. As a matter of fact, 29 men have pronounced him innocent of murder, while several others of the 26 would have agreed to an acquittal verdict. Well satisfied of the final outcome, he has always been on hand ready for and insisting on a trial, very different from the man who knows his guilt and seeks by wearing out his case to evade punishment. As Mr. Carter stepped from the court-house a free man a number of his friends were on hand to congratulate him. He tells us that as soon as he can arrange his affairs he will remove with his family to the West, where he hopes to forget his troubles and regain his fortune.

On discharging the standing jurors Saturday, Judge Morrow took occasion to pay them a handsome compliment for the work he had been enabled to accomplish through them. Every case tried was disposed of, save one, in which there was a hung jury. He was enabled to do with from 15 to 18 men, thus saving the State $20 a day and cutting the jury expense of the court about half of that last term. Three white men, Jim and Willis Adams, for hog stealing, Frank Martin for stealing bacon and two negroes, Jim Farris and John Meadows, both for house-breaking, were the penitentiary convictions of the term, and each got one year. The negro boy, Hugh Hays, who was given two years for burglary by a jury, had his sentence changed to 6 months in jail at hard labor, on the ground that the offense of burglary had not been proved.

The will of E. M. Davison was admitted to probate and quite a number of foreigners were naturalized in the county court yesterday. Judge Morrow decided that the county court did not have jurisdiction in the matter of naturalizing citizens, but Judge Varnon is satisfied and all of the other lawyers that he has the same common law jurisdiction as the circuit court.

When asked if he would continue court here this off week, Judge Morrow said, "No, I will give that up to the country. Besides, if there is any rejoicing to be done after Tuesday, I want to enjoy it at home with my friends. If not, I am better acquainted with the caves of that section, and will be myself to one in the other event." The judge had better spend the day selecting his cave. He will need it.

A NUMBER of colored men are disposed to vote the democratic ticket, but fear the wrath of their fellows. They needn't, however. This is a free country and the man or set of men who by threats or intimidation attempts such a thing will be dealt with in the most summary manner. We have heard of one or more negroes threatening that the throats of every negro who votes the democratic ticket shall be cut. If such a thing be attempted, the throat-cutters would hardly be given time to pray.

The democratic jollification at Lancaster was a grand and glorious success. The whole town was illuminated and the crowd variously estimated at 2,500 to 5,000, was as enthusiastic and at the same time as well behaved as any that ever assembled. Perfect order was enforced and everything passed off in a most creditable manner. We regretted to observe that Lincoln county was represented by so small a number. Some of those advertised to speak were detained by a murder trial, and Mr. B. C. Warren, who was terribly put out at not being able to go, was sick in bed, and so wrote to the chairman of arrangements.

The Buckner, The Kaufmann, The Tomlinson and the Lillard & Bishop Clubs (the latter small boys) nearly all uniformed and carrying torches, formed in line on Stanford street marched round Engine House, up Danville street to Luckey's corner, around Lexington Ave. to Mrs. Gill's, down Danville street to Dr. Price's and back to public square to the speakers' stand, fronting Stanford pike. Thirty beautiful young ladies in the Crab Orchard "barn" were in the procession and made the streets ring with vocal music adapted to the occasion. They afterwards occupied seats in the speakers' stand. About 400 men were on horseback. Col. W. S. Miller, in splendid uniform, was chief marshal, and was ably assisted by Judge Walker, James Denny, Capt. Eph. Lillard, Capt. T. A. Elkin, Hugh Logan and others. Judge Durham, Gov. McCrory and D. R. Murray made rousing speeches from the stand but the rain coming up, forced the other speakers to the court-house. They were Hon. John D. Harris, W. R. Smith and John Smith, the latter the colored barber who used to live here and who made a most sensible and timely speech. It was midnight when the speaking was over and the crowd dispersed as it had formed, quietly and in order.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—The longest courtship yet recorded occurred in Rhode Island, and lasted 41 years. Fifty-five days after marriage both applied for divorce, claiming to have been basely deceived.

—Mr. Shackelford Miller, democratic Elector for the 5th district, and an eloquent and rising young lawyer, will be married on the 14th to Miss Mary Wellman, a very lovely and lovable lady, both of Louisville. Those who saw them together at Rock Castle Springs last season were well aware that matters were enlivening into something serious and the announcement of their coming marriage will occasion little surprise, but many hearty congratulations.

HUSTONVILLE.

—News is received this Monday morning of the death of our former widely-known citizen, William M. Carpenter, which occurred at his home in Texas, on the morning of Thursday, Oct. 25, in the 68th year of his age. He was born, brought up, married and raised a large family near this place. Will give you a full account Friday.

The great Labor party of the United States will appreciate Garter's magic chicken cholera cure. Warranted by McRoberts & Stagg.

RECENT EVENTS.

A FARMER of Santa Rosa, Cal., has raised a Japanese cucumber that measured three feet six inches in length.

A MAN who died at Flint, Mich., some time ago wrote his own funeral sermon, the hymns to be sung at his funeral, the words of consolation to his friends and the epitaph for his tombstone.

A LARK steamer that was sold to a firm in Honduras lately started from Chicago for Belize. She went down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, and then through the Gulf of Mexico to her destination.

A QUEEN story is told of a Kansas City woman. She was traveling with her husband, and when the conductor came around after the fares he found the husband cold in death and his wife talking to him. She had been carrying on a conversation with a dead man for at least two hours.

A CITIZEN of Curtis, Fla., received a lot of toilet soap for his barber shop. In packing the cases on the shelf he noticed that one of them was much heavier than well-conducted soap generally is. Cutting it open, he found a silver dollar of the vintage of 1882. He resolved to continue trading with the barber.

A REMARKABLE sand-storm prevailed at Fresno, Cal., one day recently from four to six o'clock in the afternoon. The heavens were so darkened that one could scarcely see across the street, a completely pall hung over the city and the gas had to be lighted, while doors and windows had to be shut to keep out the fine dust.

THE heaviest article which has ever been carried by an Erie mail-bag passed through Rochester lately en route from New York to Chicago. It was a block of granite eighteen feet square, two and one-half feet thick, and weighing fifty-five tons. The pebble was quarried in Maine and was brought to New York City on a steam-barge.

NEAR Espanola, in the northwestern part of New Mexico, along the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, are situated on the top of steep mountains numerous cliff dwellings which were occupied hundreds of years ago by an Aztec people. One of the highest points a Mexican lately managed to place a Cleveland and Thurman flag at the risk of his life.

A DOX (Cal.) man lately lost his way when hunting for his cow, and was three days without food in a very rough country. He became so exhausted that he concluded that he could not live longer, but managed to build a fire, by which he lay down. He was then not over one hundred yards from the house of a ranchman, who saw the fire and went to it, surprised enough to find a starving man at his very door.

A LITTLE girl created a sensation on a Pullman sleeper the other evening near Memphis. She got up to get a drink, and then, getting into the wrong berth, lay down with an old gentleman who she thought was her papa and went to sleep. Her father and mother discovered her absence and became frantic. They found her at last, after rousing the sleeper, and no one in the car was more surprised than the old gentleman, who had been sleeping soundly all the time.

A WAY in Trenton, N. J., was recently drowned in a beer glass. He had been drinking hard, and was well under alcoholic influence, when he entered a saloon and ordered a glass of beer, which was brought him. He sat down at a table and fell into a stupor, his head drooping forward into the glass before him. When the bartender tried to arouse him half an hour later, it was found that he was dead, his nose being immersed in the liquor in such a way that respiration was completely stopped.

THE people of a church in Belfast, Me., report a singular coincidence which occurred on a recent Sunday. Just as the pastor was reading the words, "I beheld the Spirit descending as a dove out of Heaven, and it abode upon him," a beautiful dove fluttered in at the open door and alighted upon the railing of the back gallery. It next flew to the pulpit, and, after resting a minute, perched upon the speaker's head. Being brushed away, the dove flew down beside the Bible, and finally, near the close of the service, flew out through the open door at which it had entered.

FOR THE FAMILY FIRESIDE.

FRUIT jelly will help to harden jellies that incline to be thin. It is often used for stock, and flavored with various extracts.

GRASS jars are better than tin cans. They are always safe and can be used year after year, while unless tin cans are bright and new, they spoil the flavor of the fruit and render it unfit for use.

When replacing the stair carpet, do not put it down exactly as it was before, but if it will allow reverse it by putting the back to the bottom, and vice versa. This keeps it from wearing in spots, and will make it last much longer.

ORANS not regularly exercised become incapable of performing their functions. Horseback riding is the best exercise. Girls, as well as boys, should be turned out to play, skip and jump, play ball, and give free play to all their members without the restraint of tight-fitting garments.

TO MAKE apple-jam, pare the apples, which should be fully ripe, put them into a stone jar, cover well, and place in a pan of boiling water for an hour and a half. Make a sirup with two pounds of sugar in half a quart of water for every pound of apples. Clarify the sirup, then put the apples into it, and boil to a jam.

THE process of canning one kind of vegetable applies to almost all kinds, except corn, which often ferments canned in the ordinary way. It can be kept perfectly sweet by boiling it in an acid beverage, using a fact well worth remembering, as it furnishes a nice sized dish highly prized by all lovers of this vegetable.

FRIED TOMATOES.—Take cold tomatoes that have been stewed, add more seasoning if desired, one egg, and sufficient bread-crumbs to make into round cakes and fry brown in drippings; or the uncooked canned tomatoes may be seasoned and thickened with bread-crumbs, and then dipped in egg and bread-crumbs and fried.

ONE of the first rules of the fruit season should be, never put up more fruit than will be a good supply for the family until fruit comes again. A dry, well-ventilated cellar is the best place for all kinds of canned fruit, but jellies and jams should be kept in a store-room which is warm and dry, away from the least danger of damp.

BRANDED OYSTERS.—Butter a pudding dish, roll crackers very fine, put a layer of crackers, then a layer of oysters, season with salt and pepper and put small bits of butter over the oysters, fill the dish nearly full, having oysters on top, pour in sweet milk enough to soak the crackers, bake nearly an hour. If too dry when baking add a little more milk and butter.

A RAGON dust bag can be made of Chinese silk of any preferred color. Make it the shape of a straight bag thirty by ten inches, doubled and pointed at the lower end. Leave an opening large enough to admit the hand. In the seam which should be at the back, to slip in the duster. Draw a cord both ends with a small loop of a contrasting color, and snap by a brass ring through which the bag is drawn ten or twelve inches.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

OUR foreign commerce has doubled since 1890, increasing faster during that time than has England's.

ADAMS' EXPRESS COMPANY is going to do business in Europe, and Mr. John Hoyt has already arranged for principal offices at Liverpool, London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna.

According to the Jersey Gazette, of the 241 clothing manufacturers in the city of New York 24 are Hebrew firms. The Jews are also largely engaged in cigar-making, employing over 8,000 hands and producing over 600,000 cigars yearly.

IN Western New York the evaporated fruit industry is of great importance. Within a radius of forty miles around Rochester there are estimated more than 1,500 evaporators. During the early autumn and winter months at least 30,000 people are employed.

MORE than $40,000,000 worth of American refined lard is exported every year. Lard ranks sixth in value out of $800,000,000 of American exports. It is exceeded only by cotton, breadstuffs, petroleum, tobacco and sugar. Our great corn crop means large exports in the line of pork product, and the means to pay for our tea, coffee, sugar, etc.

THE value of old rubbers of the first class ranges from $50 to $100 a ton, delivered at the railway depot in the city of the buyer. Many retailers throw old rubbers away or sell them to junk men at one-half cent a pound (or $10 a ton), when, by uniting and saving them up, they could sell them to manufacturers at from five to ten times as much.

FOR some years efforts have been made to perfect plans for shipping refrigerated beef in large quantities from Texas to Europe, and it is believed that the matter has now been fully consummated. It includes the establishment of large stock yards and refrigerator works at Fort Worth and a line of steamers especially adapted to the business from Galveston to England.

AMSTERDAM claims to have become the chief European tobacco market on account of the fine quality of the Sumatra tobacco which is brought there. American cigar manufacturers are said to be specially eager to get this tobacco. Sumatra sent to Holland in 1887 188,000 bales, worth about $13,000,000, of which $5,800,000 worth was purchased by American buyers.

MANY countries have been bidding for the dairy trade in hot sections, like Brazil or India. The French appear to be ahead in this. Their butter is packed in glass jars, with glass stoppers secured with cement, so as to be absolutely air-tight. The butter is fresh, but after being packed a tablespoonful of fine salt is placed in the neck. Such butter brings a high price.

CALIFORNIA fruit shippers have taken a new departure in the disposal of their fruits in Chicago. The fruit is quickly unloaded from the cars on arrival, and sample boxes opened to display quality. Promptly at nine o'clock each morning during the fruit season the sale commences by auction, all the fruit dealers being invited to attend. The auction takes place in one of the railroad depots. Thus far the plan works better than the old method of consigning to commission men, with the consequent losses by delays, deterioration and decay.

SCIENTIFIC INTEREST.

GALLIUM is the lightest metal known and is worth $160 per ounce. Gallium is the costliest metal known and is worth $3.250 per ounce.

IT is asserted that, under certain conditions, the bark of the quilla tree of Chili possesses cleansing properties superior to those of the best soap.

PROF. EDWIN GRAY has procured a patent for a new long-distance telegraphic transmitter, giving the message in the hand-writing of the sender.

THE danger of infection from the use of books from circulating libraries has received intelligent attention in England, and means have been devised for their disinfection.

INOS, while heating, if exposed to the air, will oxidize; while at white heat, if in contact with coal, will carbonize, or become ately. Iron should be heated as rapidly as possible.

Various scientific societies have been investigating the wonderful "weather plant" discovered some months ago, and it is said that its weather-forecasting properties have been scientifically verified. The marine department of the Austrian War Department is to give the plant a trial on shipboard.

A CONVENTION of scientists, which recently made an investigation in Paris under the auspices of several commercial bodies, decided that no chemical substitute for sugar has yet been discovered, the claims of "saccharine" to that honor being destroyed by the fact that it is seriously detrimental to health.

"ANESTHETIC REVELATION" is the name which has been applied to the sensation of recovery from the anesthetic effects of sulphuric ether. For one brief instant, just before the complete return of consciousness, the subject invariably has an intense perception of what seems to him at the time the true explanation of the universe.

THE Smithsonian Institution at Washington has sent an expedition to Nova Scotia and secured five miles of the "fairy rocks," on which are curious hieroglyphic characters, evidently very old, which may throw some light on the history of the early discoveries of America. The animals are cut in upon a rock of highly-polished slate, and the intaglio is about a sixteenth of an inch deep.

INGENIOUS INVENTIONS.

A GENIUS has an invention for turning an eight-day clock into a hundred-day time-piece.

A FRENCHMAN spent ten years of his life to invent a noiseless clock, and when he had succeeded nobody would buy it.

A FRENCH electrician claims that he will soon be able to produce a thunder-storm wherever and whenever it is desired.

A MACHINE which lays railroad ties and track by steam power is said to have been given a successful trial in Washington Territory.

An ingenious kind of cloak has been introduced into the Prussian army. It is cut and finished in such a way that two of the garments together may be converted into a tent, the light supports for which accompany the cloaks.

A CHINESE man, who gives his whole mind to advertising, has devised a pair of boots whose wooden soles hold a small automatic press, with which the user's name and local habitation can be printed all over the soles.

An Englishman has invented an electric gun. There is a small storage battery fixed in the stock, from which a current strong enough to explode one cartridge is communicated. It is said that the charging of the cell will explode 5,000 cartridges.

A novel locomotive engine is on exhibition at Palmyra, Wis. Except the noise of its wheels moving upon iron rails it is noiseless and smokeless. The steam after use in the engine is condensed in a new manner, and the water at the boiling point is reused. All the wheels of this locomotive are drive wheels, being so arranged as to give them any control of the car on curves and on uneven tracks.

Ask For Ayer's

Sarsaparilla, and be sure you get it, when you want the best blood-purifier. With its forty years' success in the cure of blood diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is doing faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whillman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that my sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far exceed those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—C. Dickman, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always kept them in stock, as they are staples. There is nothing so good for the youthful blood as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—R. L. Baker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in stock. I recommend it, or, as the Doctors say, 'I prescribe it over the counter.' It never fails to meet the case for which I recommend it, even where the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. F. Calhoun, Moamouth, Kansas.
